FSIP MISSION

Five Sandoval Indian Pueblos, Inc. strengthens and enhances the lives of its member tribes and the surrounding communities, by providing an array of services which value tribal sovereignty, traditional culture and community integrity.

WE ARE HERE TO SERVE

FSIP administers state and federal grants/contracts and private foundation grants to support and serve over 8,200 tribal members of Cochiti, Jemez, Sandia, Santa Ana, and Zia Pueblo. Many of the services provided are also available for their surrounding communities. FSIP programs are administered in the four important areas of community health, human services, employment, and education.

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

The Behavioral Health Services (BHS) Program serves its Pueblo tribal members and surrounding communities to provide and coordinate services needed by their clients. The Behavioral Health team works with each client to understand and assess their needs and then develop an appropriate plan to work toward wholeness and healing in their life. Through its strong coordination efforts as a community-based provider, the program can effectively meet its clients' mental health and/or substance abuse needs.
